WHAT ARE WE DEALING WITH?

CEX: Centralized exchanges (CEXs) are organizations that coordinate cryptocurrency trading on a large scale, using a similar business model to traditional asset exchanges like stock exchanges. Centralized crypto exchanges directly participate in markets by “clearing” trades. They typically keep digital order books, which are lists of open buy and sell orders, consisting of volumes and prices. They match up buyers and sellers and announce current market prices based on the last price an asset sells for.

DEX: A decentralized exchange (or DEX) is a peer-to-peer marketplace where transactions occur directly between crypto traders. DEXs fulfill one of crypto’s core possibilities: fostering financial transactions that aren’t officiated by banks, brokers, or any other intermediary.

ARTIFICIAL INTELLIGENT IN CRYPTO: AI can be used for cryptocurrency investment including more accurate predictions, Financial assistance, sentiment analysis on the crypto exchanges, automated crypto trading, and better investment monetization.

DIGITAL WALLETS: A digital wallet (or e-wallet) is a software-based system that securely stores users' payment information and passwords for numerous payment methods and websites. By using a digital wallet, users can complete purchases easily and quickly with near-field communications technology.

ONLINE PAYMENT GATEWAY: A cryptocurrency payment gateway is a payment processor for digital currencies, similar to the payment processors, gateways, and acquiring bank credit cards use. Cryptocurrency gateways enable you to accept digital payments and receive fiat currency immediately in exchange.

CRYPTO LOAN: A collateral free loan provided to SilverLine token holders and traders instantly without credit checks.
